

United Communities of America

People First. Community Always. Opportunity For All.

The UCA Community Contract is a simple public commitment for people who want to strengthen the places they call home through service, local ownership, dignity, and opportunity. It is not a legal document. It is a shared standard for how UCA members commit to show up.

I will know my neighbors.	I will make an intentional effort to build relationships with the people around me.
I will support local enterprise.	I will look for practical ways to keep dollars, attention, and opportunity close to home.
I will serve where I can.	I will contribute time, talent, resources, or encouragement when my community needs help.
I will create opportunity for others.	I will open doors, share knowledge, make introductions, and help people move forward.
I will choose dignity.	I will treat people with respect across differences of background, belief, income, and experience.
I will leave my community better.	I will measure participation by whether it strengthens trust, service, ownership, and opportunity.

The responsibility belongs to us.

Strong communities are built by people who choose connection, service, ownership, and opportunity in everyday life.
